

Which intrinsic binds depends on how the laser is calibrated

Trusting the bench, range and extent scale together and the focal error cancels; the dot sits ~ 80 px off axis at 4 m, so the principal point is ruinous. Re-fitting the beam absorbs the principal point and, by pinning the range, destroys that cancellation. Dotted line is the 15 % worst-case budget.